DOORS ARE CLOSED OF WOMAN'S DEPT. U. S. EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

After ten successful months in operation, the woman's division, United States Employment Service yesterday closed its doors and will not resume its activities until after the first of the year.

With no funds to carry on the work it is necessary to suspend activities for the present in the hope that an appropriation will be made, said Mrs. E. P. Biddings, examiner in charge. In the meantime, she said, calls for women workers will be cared for by the men's division.

Approximately 260 women each month have been placed in positions by the local government employment service, according to Mrs. Biddings' records.

In closing its woman's division, the employment service did in Phoenix only what was done in every other city in the union, but the work here will not end by any means, according to Mrs. Biddings. She is still confident that the necessary thing for women workers is a training school which she believes will be established when the division resumes its operations.

The home assistant plan by which young girls are given a living wage and taught to become efficient workers in the home, was one of the last things advocated by the division before its suspension.

MEASURE SURPLUS STAMPS LIKE CLOTH

How many yards, please? This is the question that startles stamp purchasers, when they stop at window 16 of the postoffice and ask R. F. Adkins for stamps of 3-cent denomination.

The surplus stock of 3-cent stamps is to be found in 200 rolls of 500 stamps each and is measured by the man behind the counter just as a pretty girl in the shop measures her ribbons.

There's a difference, though, says Adkins, who declares that there will be no special sales in his department.

(From the New York Tribune)
Tillie Clinger says the reason she had to leave her last job was because the boss asked her if she couldn't come down a little softer on the keyboard, and she asked if he couldn't come down a little stronger on pay day.

Six hundred Boston students lost a chance to play "the fireman" to the rescue" when Boston firemen failed to strike along with the police. The students had volunteered to fill their places and learned the operation of the fire apparatus.

PRIZE EXHIBIT OF THE COUNTY TO BE SHOWN AT COTTON CARNIVAL

Maricopa county's prize winning exhibit at the Kansas City International Soil Products exposition will be exhibited, as nearly intact as possible, at the Mesa cotton carnival, October 23-25. This decision was made yesterday at a meeting of the exhibit committee of the chamber of commerce which handled the exhibit that won first county prize at the big exposition, as well as a formidable array of other prizes.

It already had been decided by the chamber that it would attend the cotton carnival at Mesa in a body. The chamber also will ask other civic organizations to join it in a motor trip to the cotton show.

While the exhibit that will be shown at the cotton carnival will not be entirely that shown at the soil products exposition, it will be practically the same, as it will be preserved as nearly intact as possible for the occasion. It is expected to draw considerable attention at the carnival, as Mesa was one of the valley towns that subscribed to the exhibit that won this county first honors in competition with exhibits from every part of the country.

BISBEE MAN BUYS ORANGEWOOD TRACT

One of the best sales made this week by the Phoenix Trust company is the sale to W. H. Brophy, formerly of Bisbee, and associated with the Copper Queen, of a tract in Orangewood, on which Mr. Brophy expects to build a home in the near future.

Mr. Brophy has become an orange grower. He also bought from W. J. Murphy a young orange and grapefruit grove just coming into bearing. Mr. Brophy says he realizes the citrus industry here is a good business and that citrus lands will be very valuable in the future. He believes that a young citrus grove at present prices is a mighty good speculation.

"WALKING KEEPS FLU AWAY"

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer)
That walking is the best cure for influenza, was the statement of Robert L. Marshall, 65, member of the board of directors, Cincinnati section, American Walkers' association, in a letter to Bertha A. Searle, educational director of the Public Health federation. Mr. Marshall said that during the influenza epidemic in Cincinnati last year, out of forty regular walkers there was not a case.

Flukes Saturday afternoon and evenings are made of from seven to ten miles, while Sunday the walkers frequently make from 20 to 30 miles.
